Tailing Filter Press (TFP) Update

Production ramp-up at the concentrator plant continues to be challenged by lack of full availability of the tailings filter press (TFP). Mechanical modifications to the TFP as advised by the manufacturer's engineers are expected to be completed by the end of June. With this, a further improvement in production at the plant is expected.

Simultaneously, efforts are being made to procure an additional TFP. A number of suppliers have been shortlisted by AHRL with the aim of finalising a contract to purchase a new unit at the earliest possible date.
